Press Release

On October 22, 2007 at approximately 17:00 hours, Kimberly Blaylock ran to police at the intersection of A Street and Huntington Avenue in Castle Rock and screamed that a man had just held a knife to her and attempted to force her into his truck.

Ms. Blaylock then pointed to a green truck that was traveling north in a nearby alley and stated that the driver and passengers were the people that just tried to kidnap her. Blaylock said that the suspect(s) had come to her apartment in Castle Rock to show her some tires that they wanted to sell to her husband.

Blaylock said James Seymour suddenly pointed a large knife at her and Seymour and another woman, Linda Roman then threatened her to get into the truck as Seymour tried to force Blaylock inside.

Blaylock stated she started screaming since the police were standing around the corner about a block away and then she managed to struggle free and run to the police.

The Castle Rock Police officers stopped the suspect vehicle a short distance away. A sword and three knives were recovered from the truck.

James Seymour and Linda Roman were arrested for Assault 2nd degree and Attempted Kidnapping in the 1st degree.

Bail was set for Seymour at $150,000 and for Roman at $75,000.
